Our Story

We met during the summer of 2010 at a mutual friend's bonfire and became friends while working together at Meijer between our college freshman and sophomore years. With both of us attending different schools, we were able to maintain a long-distance relationship for three years, which we feel helped strengthen our bond. We were engaged on our third anniversary and married two years later. Currently, the two of us live in the home we bought just before our first wedding anniversary with our three cats and two dogs.

We feel incredibly fortunate to have built such a strong partnership. Our life together has been an amazing adventure, and we're beyond excited to embark on this new journey. We are truly blessed with a supportive family and close friends who can't wait to welcome our future child.

What Brought Us to Adoption

Both of us have always wanted to be parents and have a family of our own to raise and love. We truly enjoy being Aunt Allyse and Uncle Corman and cannot wait to become Mom and Dad. After struggling with infertility for some time, we began researching adoption, since IVF was not an option we were interested in. We instantly knew that this was the path to parenthood God had put us on once we started the process. The two of us truly appreciate the beauty of adoption and the special bonds that are created through the process.

Our Hopes, Open Adoption & Relationship with Birth Family

We understand that adoption is an incredible sacrifice, and it is our intention that this adoption will be openly celebrated and treated as the special gift it is. We would love to send updates and photos, as well as keep communication open between us and the birth family. However, we will absolutely respect their decision if the birth family wants to remain distant. We understand that the level of openness in adoption may change over time, and we are open to discussing what's best for the child with the birth family who chooses us.

These individuals have met all requirements of the State of Michigan and Catholic Charities Washtenaw County to become adoptive parents, may fit your situation and are waiting to welcome a child into their home.
